Presenting a new way to experience our hospital

Despite having started my tenure as General Manager – Operations for over 5 months, I have been associated with this hospital since very early in 2020. This was a time when I was generously given my first employment opportunity in India by Udai Omni Hospital (UOH).

A few things immediately struck me – the hospital has a soul-deep sense of value and connect with its patients and they wanted to provide the best quality with an acute attention to detail. Thankfully, nothing has changed even today.

Udai Omni thrives on the personal connection with our patients

While there are many avenues for improvement in our output, it is the desire of management to gradually and stealthily introduce change. With support and teamwork, this revolution should come in a manner that allows our UOH family to adapt, while maintaining and placing focus on that desired standard of care.

Building on such a concept to inspire a change and sense of ownership among the team and our publics for our hospital, this quarterly newsletter is a channel for this paradigm shift.

Celebrating our people and our strides

It is a testament to the hard work, dedication and service of the team, as we all strive toward one goal – the success and growth of our hospital.

May this new initiative herald an increase in engagement, productivity and quality for the benefit of our patients, our stakeholders and our team. Happy reading!

Reflections on our history

Known as a centre of excellence in Orthopaedics, Udai Omni Hospital stands as a modest, but proud 49 year old multispecialty hospital located at the heart of the city. While initially known as Udai Clinic, back in 1974 Founder and Chairman, Dr Ved Prakash aptly named the hospital in honour of his dear father - Sri Udai Bhanuji.

It should also be noted that Dr Prakash who just celebrated his 90th Birthday this week is often acknowledged as an institution in the city. An offering to the community, the hospital has been on an unwavering mission to bring international standards of specialist healthcare to the people of Hyderabad, back when the country was still in its infancy.

The metamorphosis

Building on a legacy of service

What started as a humble family journey, officially became amalgamated with the Omni Group of Hospitals under the stewardship of Mr Surya Pullagam, making the facility much bigger in capacity and part of a more versatile family and ecosystem.

With its 150 beds and 24x7 Emergency Department and hardworking team of healers, the hospital is proud to stand the test of time as a beacon of hope in the City of Hyderabad. Udai Omni Hospital with its core values cemented by Dr Ved Prakash and Mrs Indumathi Prakash proves that compassion, focus and a team dedicated to service is all it takes to make a success story which adds tangible value to a community.

The management and staff have joined hands to produce a memorable event in the location where the magic began, the humble 'old building' as it is fondly known.

Many reasons to be proud

While the decorations and performances were indeed most festive and beautiful, what was infinitely captivating was the joy and happiness that the team was able to celebrate, knowing that each person with roles big and small, collaborated to make the hospital a place of happiness and healing, helping thousands of patients throughout the long, yet rewarding journey.

Patients who couldn't walk and felt depressed due to mobility issues were able to find relief and walk again. Within these walls, science became an art of love and almost miraculously helped many people across India and the world find solutions to their pain and discomfort, building families and helping our country and people. This more than anything else, makes the anniversary, the hospital and the team exceptionally proud.

In-Depth

“Since I was a child, I’ve seen many people live with pain and I wanted to help them!”

While the pursuit of a medical career is not the easiest choice for me, I am grateful for the experiences, the things that I’ve learnt and the people I’ve met on the job.

Both colleagues and patients have been critical in shaping my outlook and perspective. Sometimes, we look at a patient file and see only data, but when you look up and see a face looking back at you, it really shakes you into the reality that you are shaping someone’s life. This is a startling realisation which keeps me grounded and focused.

In Udai Omni

Udai Omni Hospital is a second home to me. This hospital has been a part of my journey through my formative years and moments of struggle, yet became the channel for my growth and success throughout these years.

Dr Udai Prakash has been a kind and very sincere mentor who took the time to teach, mold and offer a polished perspective to make my work worthy of international appeal.

The kind of learning and growth a doctor experiences in this environment is quite vast and will prove quite beneficial for any doctor or professional who wishes to climb to the top.
